Teacher's Toolkit

VCE Food Studies 2023

Each year in the Food Studies Toolkit we try to strike the balance between supporting new teachers teaching the subject for the first time as well as providing new and exciting ideas for the experienced teacher. The last two years forced us to change, adapt and innovate the way we delivered key knowledge and skills. We have learnt so much!

Belinda will share insights learned, provide the latest information, research and new activities that cover the key knowledge and key skills in a comprehensive and interesting way.

She will share streamlined ways to approach SAC's, practical activities and delivering course content and discuss ways to integrate Unit 1 and 3 content for those who have combined classes.

Belinda is passionate about developing curriculum and pedagogy that particularly supports and engages all VCE Food Studies students to achieve their best course and examination results.

As Food Studies begins a new study design, all resources and ideas shared will be new in 2023, including more scientific practical activities and excursion ideas.

Teachers can expect to leave each Toolkit with course timelines, many examples and new ideas to use or adapt for their own cohort of students.
